بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِیْمِ

Acknowledgement:

All thanks and praise is due to Allaah. We seek His help and forgiveness, and we seek refuge in Allaah from the evil within ourselves and the consequences of our evil deeds. Whoever Allaah guides will never be led astray, and whoever Allaah leads astray will never find guidance. I bear witness there is no God but Allaah, alone without any partners, and I bear witness that Muhammad (peace and blessings be upon him) is His servant and His Messenger.

Allaah Almighty said, “O you who have faith, fear Allaah as it is His right to be feared and do not die except as Muslims” (3:102)

And Allaah Almighty said, “O people, fear your Lord, who created you from one soul and created from it its mate and dispersed from both of them many men and women. Fear Allaah, through whom you ask one another and maintain family ties. Verily, Allaah is ever watching over you.” (4:1)

And Allaah Almighty said, “O you who have faith, fear Allaah and speak upright words. He will correct your deeds and forgive your sins. Whoever obeys Allaah and His Messenger has won a tremendous victory.” (33:70-71)

Verily, the most truthful speech is the Book of Allaah, the best guidance is the guidance of Muhammad (peace and blessings be upon him), and the worst of affairs are newly invented matters. Every newly invented matter is a religious innovation, and every religious innovation is misguidance, and every misguidance is in the Hellfire.

(O Allaah, send prayers upon Muhammad and upon the family of Muhammad, as You sent prayers upon Ibraaheem and upon the family of Ibraaheem; You are indeed Worthy of Praise, Full of Glory. O Allaah, send blessings upon Muhammad and upon the family of Muhammad as You sent blessings upon Ibraaheem and upon the family of Ibraaheem; You are indeed Worthy of Praise, Full of Glory).”

At this point, I would like to thank all my teachers of Jamia Darus Salam, Tamil Nadu and Jamia Islamia University, Saudi Arabia for making me able to write a book on one of the sophisticated sciences of hadith i.e ilm e rijaal. I would also like to adopt an attitude of gratitude towards my AskIslamPedia.com’s team for supporting me through their efforts. At last but not the least, I thank my friend Mohammad Faisal Afroze {May Allaah Preserve Him} of Peddapalli for compiling an initial English draft of my original concept and content in the urdu audio form.

May Allaah make this book heavy on the scales of the day of judgment for all of us. Ameen

Note: Some excerpts from the books of world renowned hadith scholars have been mimeographed in this book for assistance. May Allaah bless all of those authors with goodness.

Preface

A Hadeeth consists of three parts:

1. The Sanad
2. The Matn
3. The Taraf

The Sanad, or Isnad refers to the chain of narrators that has reported any given hadith. Most scholars agree that the chain begins from the last reporter of the hadith and ends at the Prophet Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam.

As for mentioning the sanad, certainly our Ulema, May Allah has mercy upon them, would not accept a hadeeth except with its isnaad.

Al Haafidh al 'Alaae said, may Allah have mercy upon him, in Jamiat- Tahseel pg. 58, and in Saheeh Muslim on Ibn Seereen "They didn't use to ask about the isnaad but when the fitnah came they would say, "name for us your men". So look at ahlus- sunnah and accept their hadeeth and look at ahlul bidah and do not accept their hadeeth".

Sufyaan Ibn Uyanah said, Az-Zuhri narrated a hadeeth one day; so I said to him, " Bring it without the isnaad ". So he said, " ascend the roof without a ladder?!"

Baqiyah said,' Utbah Ibn Abi Haakeem narrated to us that he was with Ishaq Ibn Abi Farwah and with him Az- Zuhri. So Ibn Abi Farwahsaid, the Messenger of Allah Sallallahu Alaihi wa sallam said....., so Zuhri said "Qaatalakaallah" what prevented you from bringing the isnaad of your hadeeth? Will you narrate to us hadeeth without any reigns or muzzle?!"

Abdus Samad Ibnul Hasaan said I heard Sufyaan AtThawree say, “ The isnaad is the weapon of the believer. So if he does not have a weapon then what will he fight with?”

An Shu’ba said, “Every hadeeth that does not have haddathanaa or akhbaranaa then it is herbs and vinegar”.

In Saheeh Muslim also, on ‘Abdaan he said, “ I heard Ibnul Mubaaraak say, “The isnaad with me is from the deen. If not for isnaad whoever pleased could say whatever he pleased.”

On ‘Abaas Ibn Abi Ruzma he said, “I heard Abdullah, meaning Ibnul Mubaaraak, say, “Between us and the people is the isnaad.”

On Ibaraahem Ibnul ‘Esa At-Talaqaani say, “ I said to ‘Abdullah Ibnul Mubaarak, “Oh Aba Abdur-Rahmaan, the hadeeth if which comes, “Certainly from al birr after al birr is to pray for your parents with your salat and to fast for them with your fast”. Abdullah said “ Oh Aba Ishaq, from who is this hadeeth ”? I said, “ It is from the hadeeth of Shihab Ibn Kharaash ”. He said, “ He is trustworthy on who ”? I said “on Al Hajaaj Ibnud- Dinaar”. He said, “ He is trustworthy on who ”? I said, “ He said the Prophet, sallallahu alaihi wa sallam, said.....” He said (Ibnul Mubaaraak) “ Oh Aba Ishaq! Between Al Hajaaj and the Prophet is a desert that would break the necks of the riding beasts! But there is no difference of opinion with regards to sadaqah”.

Shu’bah ibn al-Hajjaaj, may Allah have mercy upon him, heard from his Sheikh Abee Ishaq As-Sabee’i, ‘Amr ibn Abdillah, the hadeeth of Abdullah ibn ‘Ataa from ‘Uqbah ibn ‘Aamir in the virtue of Isbaaghul-wudhu. So he asked Abu Ishaq, “did Abdullah ibn Ataa hear it from Uqbah ibn Aamir?” So Abu Ishaq became angry at this. Then Mas’ar ibn Kidaam said to Shu’bah “ Abdullah ibn’ataa is in Mecca ”. So he [Shu’bah] traveled to meet him. Shu’bah said, “ I traveled to Mecca not intending Al-hajj but seeking the Hadeeth. I met ‘Abdullah ibn ‘Ataa and I asked him [about the hadeeth] and he said “ S’ad ibn Ibraheem narrated it to me ”. Then Maalik ibn Anas said to me “ S’ad ibn Ibraheem did not make Hajj and is in Al- Madeenah ”. So I traveled to Al-Madeenah and I met S’ad ibn Ibraheem, and I asked him [about the Hadeeth] He said “ The Hadeeth with you was narrated to me by Ziyaad ibn Mikhraaq ”. Shu’ba said, “ So when he mentioned Ziyaad I said, what is this! The Hadeeth began Kufi then became Makki and then Basri! So I traveled to Basrah and met Ziyaad ibn Mikhraaq and I asked him [about the Hadeeth] He said, “ Shahr ibn Hawshab narrated to me on Abee Reethaanah from ‘Uqbah ibn ‘Aamir on the Prophet Sallallahu Alaihi wa sallam. Shu’bah said, “ When he mentioned Shahr ibn Hawshab I said, Shahr has ruined it! If the likes of this Hadeeth had been authentic on the Prophet Sallallahu alaihi wa sallam it would have been more beloved to me then my wealth and family and all of mankind!

The concept of the isnaad could be thought of as the crux of the sciences of hadith. No other religion, culture, or dynasty has ever come up with such a precise method of bringing for statements of a person than with the isnaad system in Islam.

A German Orientalist's review of Asmaa ur-Rijaal

In his introduction to Hafidh Ibn Hajar's Al-Isabah fee Tamyeez-is-Sahaaba, Dr A.Sprenger has paid a glowing tribute to the scholars of the Traditions (hadith):

"The glory of the literature of the Mohammedans is its literary biography. There is no nation, nor has there been any which like them has during twelve centuries recorded the life of every man of letters. If the biographical records of the Musalmans were collected, we should probably have accounts of the lives of half a million of distinguished persons. and it would be found that there is not a decennium of their history, nor a place of importance which has not its representatives." [Sprenger vol.1, pg.1]

The Matn refers to the actual text of hadith, which if authentic is the actual sunnah of the Prophet Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam

One might wonder why it is important to study both the mutun and isnad. This is because you must know if a hadith is authentic before accepting it or putting it into practice. The study of the isnad is for the purposes of authentication. It must be noted that the mutn is sometimes used for authentication as well. Some of the more experienced specialists in hadith can analyze a mutn to determine that it is not a hadith belonging to the Prophet Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam This is not something that comes easily. Only the advanced Muhaddith can do something like that. Also, sometimes you will have a trustworthy reporter say something that is inauthentic. This occurrence is known as a shaadh hadith. Realize that it is important to study both the isand and mutn in hadith.

The Taraf is simply the nickname of a hadith. It is a part of hadeeth or the beginning sentence of the text that is shorthand for the complete matn. Oftentimes we come across very long hadith. In these cases, the scholars and students of knowledge will just refer to the first sentence of the hadith which is sufficient to recognize the hadith being referred to. Who uses the Taraf the most? The ones focused on studying the isnad find more benefit in using Taraf. This is because they aren't concerned so much with the full mutn. Rather they are analyzing the chains of the hadith. All they really need is the recognition of hadith to perform their examination of the isnad.

A Precise Introduction to Asmaa ur-Rijaal:

The “Sunnah” (words, actions and traditions) of the Prophet (Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam), is the keystone of the teachings of Islam. Among majority of the scholars, the Sunnah of the Prophet Muhammad (Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam) is defined as the sayings (the verbal order), actions (the activities) or approval of actions (directives) that are related to the beliefs as well as rulings of the Islamic faith – both in terms of rituals as well as daily life actions.

The “Hadith” (similar to Sunnah) are narrations originated from the words and deeds of the Prophet (Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam). Ahadith are regarded as important tools for understanding the Qur’an and in matters of jurisprudence. As the companions started to pass away, the era of Taabi’een (Muslim generation after Sahaabah) began. During this time, the scholars became very careful in narrating the traditions and the scholars would emphasize on naming the source before accepting any narration of Hadith. The successors introduces many techniques to authenticate and verify the true words of the Prophet (Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam)- one such science (among many others) of verifying the “words and actions” of the Prophet (Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam) is known as ‘Asma-ur-Rijaal’ or ‘The Science of the narrators’. The Sunnah of the Prophet (Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam) has been emphasized a number of times at different places in the Qur’an.

Throughout the history, people attacking the validity of Islam as well as some who believed in Islam have questioned the authenticity of the traditions and sayings of the Prophet (Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam). Some of the points that they raise are:

1. Accuracy of the text being narrated
2. Forgetfulness of the narrators
3. Deceit on part of the narrators

The term “Muhaddith” refers to a specialist who profoundly knows and narrates hadith, verifies the ‘chains of their narration’ (known as: Isnaad), and the original and filters famous narrators. Many scholars had to travel long-ways, miles & miles and take on arduous journeys to even collect one Hadith from the companions of the Prophet (Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam) and they were extremely careful in narrating and authenticating even small bits of each Hadith. When a person would narrate a Hadith, some of the steps that scholars would take to establish the authenticity of the Hadith would include the following:

They would review the history of the narrator to ensure that he did not have a history of lying.

Some of the scholars would ask the narrator of their source and then would travel themselves to confirm the source and to verify the authenticity of the Hadith.

They would evaluate the text against the verses of the Qur'an as well as other Ahadith to ensure that it did not violate any other established text or rule.

The Prophet (Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam) , at initial days of Islam inhibited the companions, not to write down his sayings due to some of the reasons (e.g. sayings of Prophet may not be confused with the verses of the Qur'an) - but later, as time passed, the Prophet (Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam) allowed the companions to write down His sayings on different media such as skins, rocks, wood etc.

The first actions taken to be known as Asmaa ur-Rijaal or the science of the narrators. During this time, they started documenting both the Ahadith as well as the science of narrators. The documenting of Hadith would consist of documenting the actual text along with the whole chain of narrations.

The science of narrators consisted of documenting the names of the narrators and their attributes is presented diagrammatically and it shows a continuous chain for a particular Hadith reaching to Prophet. The missing of any one narrator would not take you to the originator.

As the Prophet Muhammad (Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam) is the true Messenger of real Creator and Allaah has been repeatedly emphasizing upon to obey His Messenger also, then how it was possible (logically) that the Creator has not arranged their protection.

Mustalah al-Hadith is strongly associated with Rijal al-Hadith (the study of the reporters of hadith). In scrutinising the reporters of a hadith, authenticating or disparaging remarks made by recognised experts, from amongst the Successors and those after them, were found to be of great help. Examples of such remarks, in descending order of authentication, are:

"Imam (leader), Hafiz (preserver)."

"Reliable, trustworthy."

"Makes mistakes."

"Weak."

"Abandoned (by the traditionists)."

"Liar, used to fabricate ahadith."⁵

Reporters who have been unanimously described by statements such as the first two may contribute to a Sahih ("sound", see later) isnad. An isnad containing a reporter who is described by the last two statements is likely to be Da`if jiddan (very weak) or Maudu` (fabricated). Reporters who are the subject of statements such as the middle two above will cause the isnad to be Da`if (weak), although several of them relating the same hadith independently will often increase the rank of the hadith to the level of Hasan (good).

If the remarks about a particular reporter conflict, a careful verdict has to be arrived at after in-depth analysis of e.g., the reason given for any disparagement, the weight of each type of criticism, the relative strictness or leniency of each critic, etc.

The earliest remarks cited in the books of Rijal go back to a host of Successors, followed by those after them until the period of the six canonical traditionists, a period covering the first three centuries of Islam.

Among the earliest available works in this field are Ta'rikh of Ibn Ma`in (d. 233), Tabaqat of Khalifa b. Khayyat (d. 240), Ta'rikh of al-Bukhari (d. 256), Kitab al-Jarh wa 'l-Ta'dil of Ibn Abi Hatim (d. 327) and Tabaqat of Muhammad b. Sa'd (d. 320).

A number of traditionists made efforts specifically for the gathering of information about the reporters of the five famous collections of hadith, those of al-Bukhari (d. 256), Muslim (d. 261), Abu Dawud (d. 275), al-Tirmidhi (d. 279) and al-Nasa'i (d. 303), giving authenticating and disparaging remarks in detail. The first major such work to include also the reporters of Ibn Majah (d. 273) is the ten-volume collection of al-Hafiz `Abd al-Ghani al-Maqdisi (d. 600), known as Al-Kamal fi Asma' al-Rijal. Later, Jamal al-Din Abu 'l-Hajjaj Yusuf b. `Abd al-Rahman al-Mizzi (d. 742) prepared an edited and abridged version of this work, punctuated by places and countries of origin of the reporters; he named it Tahdhib al-Kamal fi Asma' al-Rijal and produced it in twelve volumes. Further, one of al-Mizzi's gifted pupils, Shams al-Din Abu `Abdullah Muhammad b. Ahmad b. `Uthman b. Qa'imaz al-Dhahabi (d. 748), summarised his Shaikh's work and produced two abridgements: a longer one called Tahdhib al-Tahdhib and a shorter one called Al-Kashif fi Asma' Rijal al-Kutub al-Sittah.

A similar effort with the work of al-Mizzi was made by Ibn Hajar (d. 852), who prepared a lengthy but abridged version, with about one-third of the original omitted, entitled Tahdhib al-Tahdhib in twelve shorter volumes. Later, he abridged this further to a relatively-humble two- volume work called Taqrib al-Tahdhib.

The work of al-Dhahabi was not left unedited; al-Khazraji (Safi al-Din Ahmad b. `Abdullah, d. after 923) summarised it and also made valuable additions, producing his Khulasah.

A number of similar works deal with either trustworthy reporters only, e.g. Kitab al-Thiqat by al-`Ijli (d. 261) and Tadhkirah al-Huffaz by al-Dhahabi, or with disparaged authorities only, e.g. Kitab al-Du`afa' wa al-Matrukin by al-Nasa'i and Kitab al-Majruhin by Muhammad b. Hibban al-Busti (d. 354).

Two more works in this field which include a large number of reporters, both authenticated and disparaged, are Mizan al-I'tidal of al-Dhahabi and Lisan al-Mizan of Ibn Hajar.

Lesson no 3

A Brief Introduction to Asmaa ur-Rijaal:

Biographies of Hadīth Transmitters

Ilm Tārikh al-Ruwāt

THIS branch of hadith studies is sometimes referred to as ilm al-rijal al-hadith, and also tabaqāt al-ruwat (classes of narrators), and asma' al-rijal (names of authorities). It is concerned mainly with biographical data, chronology, and life histories of hadith transmitters, their academic achievements, their teachers, their students, school of following, political leaning, and views of other people concerning them. All information that has a bearing on reliability or otherwise of their narration of hadith, indeed any information that helps to explain and identify the personality and character of the hadith transmitter is of concern to this branch of 'ulūm al-hadith. Biographical data on hadith transmitters is also concerned with precise identification of the generation (tabaqa) and time frame in which hadith transmitters lived.

Hadith transmitters have occasionally acted against the normal order of hadith transmission. Sometimes a Companion narrates hadith from a Follower (tabi i), or a father from son, in which case it is important that one is able to identify instances of this kind in the isnād. The normal order that is expected of isnād is that a person in the lower generation or tabaqa narrates hadith from the preceding generation. It is also expected that the transmission occurs on a vertical line in an order where each generation is represented by one narrator. But this normal order frequently changes in parts of the isnād where, for example, two or three Companions, or two or three Followers, or Successors narrate from one another before the isnād shifts to a lower level. Sometimes relatives and family members narrate from one another horizontally in one generation. These and similar other factors have prompted the hadith scholars to identify the classes/generations (tabaqāt) of hadith narrators.

The Companions are basically one ṭabaqa, yet they have been classified in more than a dozen classes based on their seniority and closeness to the Prophet, their precedence in embracing Islam, time of migration to Madina and participation in the various battles, beginning, for example, with the battles of Badr, Uhud and so forth. Two persons may sometimes belong to the same tabaqa from a certain perspective, but fall under different tabaqa from a different perspective. The Companion, Anas b. Málik al-Ansari, for example, is one of the junior Companions (min aṣāghir al-sahāba), but he joins the leading Companions for being one of 'ashara mubashshara.

Other factors that are brought to light by the biographers are exact identification of names especially when a person may be known by various names. The identification also of who is a Companion or tābi'i, or tābi tabi'i and so on, are not self evident concerning the narrators of hadith and it is the concern of this branch of hadith to provide them as accurately as possible.

Then the tābi'un are also sub-divided on the basis, for example, of the fact of their encounter with one of the 'ashara mubashshara, that is, the ten Companions to whom the Prophet gave the rising of entry to Paradise. This is followed by the leading tābi un that include the seven leading jurists of Madina (al-fuqaha' al-sab'a) and so on.

It is possible, as experience shows, that a person is most pious and trustworthy yet weak in respect of retention and memory. Hadith transmitted by such persons may not be admitted on the merit only of their piety. It is also possible, as hadith scholars have noted, that a person is sound and reliable at one time and his condition changes due to personal situations, adoption of controversial views, illness and the like which may cast doubt on his reliability, and his transmission, therefore, of hadith. The 'ulamā' of hadith are normally careful not to accept narration of hadith from unknown people and persons of obscure identity and character. It is therefore not enough if a hadith narrator is not known for transgression and doubtful statements but also that his propriety and trustworthiness is supported by positive evidence together with all relevant factors relating to their knowledge, piety, truthfulness, soundness of memory and association with others. This is in conformity with the widely-quoted statement of an early hadith scholar, Abd Allāh b. al-Mubarak (d. 181/797) who said that "isnād is a part of the religion, for without the verification of isnād, people may say what they wish to say." Isnād is concerned with accurate recording of the facts of hadith and chronology (al-tarikh) and plays a particularly important role in it. Investigation of the relevant dates has often revealed that spurious and careless statements have been made by individuals concerning the isnād. An early scholar of hadith and a leading figure of al-Sham (Syria), Isma'il b. 'Ayyash (d. 182/898) is quoted to have asked a man concerning a hadith he had narrated from a Follower (sābi'i), Khālid b. Ma'dn "When did you write the hadith from Khalid b. Ma dān?" and the answer given was "the year 113 hijra." This invoked the comment from Ibn 'Ayyāsh "Do you suppose that you heard the hadith from him seven years after his death?- for Ibn Ma dān died in 106 H." Hafs b. Ghiyāth, a judge and hadīth scholar of Kūfa (d. 194/810) has been quoted to the effect "when you suspect a transmitter of hadith, then judge him by the years," that is, his age, and the age of his immediate source, and time of encounter with his shaykh over the hadith in question. Sufyan al-Thawri (d. 161/778) who is known as amir al-mu'minin fi'l-hadith (prince of the believers in hadith) also went on record to say that "where the transmitters resorted to lying, we resorted to chronology (to judge them by it)."

This sphere of hadith studies is thus concerned primarily with biographical information which often begins with the date and place of birth and death, although it is the date of death which is the focus of attention rather than the date of birth. The information that is so documented is vast and it begins with the generation of the Companions, the Followers, and so on, while giving prominence to the leading scholars of hadith and their contributions.

The earliest works on the Tārikh al-Rumāt is that of Ibn Sa'd al-Zuhri's (a. 2307845 Kitāb al-Tabaqāt al-Kabir in fifteen volumes, and that of Imām Muhammad b. Ismail al-Bukhāri (d. 256/871) Al-Tarikh al Kabir, and Abū Hātim Muhammad Ibn Hibban al-Busti's (d. 354/965) Mashāhir Ulama' al-Amṣār, and many others. Ibn Hajar al-Asqalani (d. 852 H) ul-Iṣūba fī Tamyiz al-Ṣahāba is very well known, and a more recent work of acclaim on the subject is I-Risāla al-Mustatrafīya by Muhammad b. Ja'far al-Kattāni (d. 1345/1927). Al-Asqalani's Al Iṣāba was subsequently summarised by his disciple al-Suyuti (d. 911) under the title Ayn al-Iṣāba. Usd al-Ghāba of 'Izz al-Din Ibn al-Athir (d, 630) is another well-known work on 'Ilm Rijal al-Hadith.

The Tabaqāt of Ibn Sa'd contains biographies of most of the important narrators of hadith. It is a rich mine of valuable information, not only on hadith but also on the early history of Islam.

It contains biographies of more than 4,000 traditionists. Ibn Sa'd was born in Baṣra in 169 H, he travelled in Kufa, Makka and Madina before he settled in Baghdad. Here he came in close contact with Muhammad b. 'Umar al-Wāqidi, one of the early Arab historians and prolific writers of his time. Ibn Sad worked as a-Wāqidi's literary secretary for many years, which gave him his title, Kātib al-Wāqidi, by which he is generally known. Ibn Sa'd was a man of great accomplishment in learning who attracted many distinguished students to his teachings. One of the most prominent among them was al-Balādhuri, the author of Futūh al Buldan, who has relied extensively on Ibn Sa 'd. Ibn Sad's own reliance on al-Wāqidi's works has, however, been criticised as the latter has been said to have been less than accurate in reference to hadith.

Ibn Sad is known to have written two other works entitled Al Tabagāt al-Saghir and Kitāb Akhbar al-Nabi respectively. They are in effect not separate works as almost all the information they contain has been included in the first two volumes of his Kitāb al-Tabaqāt al-Kabir. Ibn al-Ṣalāh commented on Ibn Sa'd's Tabagāt, saying that it is "an extensive work of great benefits, and its author is also reliable (thiqa), except that he has frequently recorded information from weak narrators (al-du afā'), one among whom is (his teacher) Muhammad b. 'Umar al-Wāqidi."

It seems that one of Ibn Sa'd's disciples, probably al-Husayn b. Fahm (d. 289/901) wrote portions of the Tabagāt as the text in some sections contains phrases such as "haddathana Ibn Sa d (Ibn Sad spoke to us). Ibn Fahm completed the book according to the plan of its author, added short notations to it concerning names that were already included by the author, and read the work to his own students. The first two volumes of this work are devoted to the genealogy of the Prophet Muhammad, and his biography where the author also gives information on many of the previous prophets. The Prophet Muhammad's early life in Makka, the beginning of his mission, migration to Madina, his various battles, illness and death, etc., are expounded in considerable detail. The rest of this voluminous work is devoted to biographical data on the Companions, which he divided into five ṭabagāt, beginning with the Migrants who participated in the Battle of Badr, Companions who had migrated to Abyssinia, those who converted to Islam before the conquest of Makkah, Companions who settled and lived in Kufa, or in Basra, Baghdad and other places, and then the Followers and the Successors.

Biographical notations on the Companions are long and generally contain their genealogies on both their father and mother's side, the names of their wives and children, time of conversion to Islam, the part taken by them in the important events during the Prophet's lifetime, the dates of their death and so forth. There is a certain degree of overlap and inclusion of the same names in different classes in his divisions, some of which is, however, considered to be inevitable. The very last volume of this work is devoted to women among the Companions and the Followers. Ibn Sa'd pays a great deal of attention to genealogies with an unusual emphasis on tribal origins and descent in a way that is reminiscent of the pre-Islamic era. In this regard Ibn Sa'd's work stands in contrast to that of his teacher al-Waqidi. Ibn Sa'd's biographies are generally premised on the time factor and dates such as those of migration to Abyssinia, the Hijra proper, the Battle of Badr, the conquest of Makkah and so forth. Yet he also refers frequently to place names in the biographical data he has compiled. Siddiqi has quoted Prof. Sachau's remark on Ibn Sa'd who has shown impartiality and honesty, thoroughness and minuteness, objectivity and originality."

Writers have taken different approaches to biographical literature on the classification of hadith transmitters. Some writers classified them in accordance with categories, or tabaqal, that lived in the same era or generation. Famous in this category is the Ṭabagāt of Ibn Sa'd. Whereas Ibn Sa'd's work provides detailed information on biographies, the Tabagāt al-Huffaz of al-Hafiz Shams al-Din al-Dhahabi (d. 748) contain extremely short notices on the classes and individuals of hadith transmitters. There are also some who confine their works only to the names, appellations, titles and genealogies.

Still others have classified their biographies in alphabetical order in accordance with the names of narrators and this appears to be easier to use. One of the well-known works in this category is Ibn Hajar al-'Asqalani Tahdhib al-Tahdhib in ten volumes. Imām al-Bukhari Al-Tarikh al-Kabir is another work of this type.

There are also those who based their biographies on the chronological factor of the dates of deaths of the transmitters, and yet others who used the names of cities and localities to which the narrators belonged. Makka, Madina, Kūfa, Basra, Wāsiṭ, Damascus, Baghdad, Aleppo, Qayrawan, Bukhārā, Merw, etc., were also home to hadith transmitters and literary figures. This data provides basic tools for hadith criticism and the application of rules pertaining to impugment and validation (al-jarh wa-ta'dil)."

The magnitude of these biographical dictionaries is seen from the large number of persons whose biographies they contain. Al Bukhārī's Al-Tarikh al-Kabir, which is the next landmark work after that of Ibn Sa'd dealt with over 40,000 traditionists. No complete manuscript of this work is, however, known to exist. Only sections of it have been preserved, Al-Khaṭīb al-Baghdadi (d. 463 H) gave in his Tarikh Baghdād, short biographies of 7,831 persons, whereas Ibn Hajar al-Asqalani in his Tahdhib al-Tahdhib and Mizan al-Hilal recorded biographies of 12,415 and 14,443 traditionists respectively.

The initial phase of the tabagat literature, which was general and recorded biographies of all narrators of hadith soon led to the writing of more specialised works that focused on certain classes thereof

These works specialised in the biographies of the Companions, or of persons in other periods, and in respect of cities and localities, or according to their ranking on the various criteria of reliability or weakness and so forth.

The results of this research was collected and put together by 'Izz al-Din Ibn al-Athir (d. 630/1230) in Usd al-Ghūba which compiled biographies of 7,554 persons in the category of Companions, some of whom were only discovered by him. Usd al-Ghūba is considered work of authority and it was followed in the ninth-century hijra by a more comprehensive work on the subject, namely, Alfi Tamayls al-Ṣahaba by Shiluba Din Ali Ibn Hajar al-Asqalani (d. 852/1448). Ibn Hajar has put together the results of the labours of his predecessors on the biographies of Companions, criticising them in certain cases and adding to them some of his own findings. His work thus combines a part where correct biographies are recorded of persons who have been wrongly identified as Companions in some other biographical dictionaries.

It is suggested that the last of the Companions was Abū Tufayl "Amir b. Wāthila al-Laythi who died in the year 100 of the hijra, and the last of the Followers is one who has seen the last living Companion. Abū Tufayl 'Amr b. Wāthila died in Makka and the last person among the Followers who met him was Khalaf b. Khalifa who died in 181 hijra and this also marked the ending of the period of the Followers. The Successors' period is considered to have ended at the year 220 H; included among them were the Imāms Mālik and al-Shāfi'i. Imām Ahmad b. Hanbal (d. 241) belongs to the succeeding generation, that is, next to the Successors, whereas Imam Abu Hanifa (d. 150 H) belongs to the category of the Followers as he met some of the junior Companions like Anas b. Malik, Jābir b. Abd Allāh and others.

About seven persons among the Companions are known to have narrated a major portion of hadith from the Prophet, a fact which earned them the epithet mukththirū al-hadith (prolific narrators of hadith) as opposed to those who transmitted little notwithstanding their recognized status as leading figures among them. Anyone who narrated more than one thousand hadith from the Prophet belongs to the category of prolific narrators and these are Abu Hurayra who narrated (5,374) hadith, Abd Allah b. Umar (2,630) hadith, Anas b. Mālik (2,286) hadith, Aisha Siddiqa (2,210) hadith, Abd Allah b. 'Abbās (1,660), Jabir b. 'Abd Allah (1,540) and Abu Sa'id al-Khudri (1,170) hadith The mosi learned among the Companions were Umar b. al-Khattāb, Al, Hayy h

Kab, Zayd b. Thabit, Abu al Dardā' (some say Abū Mūsā al-Ash 'arī instead of Abū al-Dardā), and Abd Allah b. Mas ūd, and the two selected names from among these were Ali and Ibn Mas'ud. Abu Bakr, the first Caliph, and lifetime friend and Companion of the Prophet has narrated about one hundred and forty-two ahādith, which is said to be due to his early death at a time when hadith narration had not yet become the focus of attention.

Lesson no 4

Introduction of course and level 1:

Imam Ali Ibne Madeeni said:

“Ath Tafaqqo Fee Maanil Hadeesi Nisful Ilmi wa Ma'rifatur Rijali Nisful ilmi”

"Understanding of the meanings of Hadeeth is Half Knowledge, and Awareness of the narrators is Half Knowledge"

[al Jamiul Akhlaq lil Raawee wa Adaab as Samee of khateeb al Baghdadi V. 2, pg. 211]

Who was Ali Ibne Madeeni ?

Full Name: ‘Alee ibn ‘Abdillaah ibn Ja’far ibn Najeeh, As Sa’dee.

Kunya: Abu al Hasan ibn al Madeenee al Basree.

Born: 162 H

Died: 235 H

He narrated upon the authority of his father, Hamaad ibn Zayd, ibn ‘Uyaynah, ‘Abdullah ibn Wahb and many more.

Amongst the many who narrated on his authority: Al Bukhari, Abu Dawud, At Tirmidhi, ibn Maajah, an Nasaa-ee and many others.

Al Bukhari stated: ‘He was the most knowledgeable person of his time.’

Abu Haatim ar Raazee stated: ‘Alee was a distinguished symbol amongst the people in the knowledge of Hadeeth and its defects. Al Imam Ahmad never used to say his name, he used say his Kunya out of respect for him, I never heard al Imam Ahmad mention him by name.

Ibn ‘Uyaynah stated: They fault me for the love of ‘Alee, by Allah, I learnt more from him than him from me.

Muhammad ibn Qudaamah al Jawharee stated: I heard ibn ‘Uyaynah say:

‘If it were not for ‘Alee ibn al Madeenee I would not have sat to gain knowledge.’

‘Abdur Rahmaan ibn Mahdee stated: ‘Alee ibn Madeenee is the most knowledgeable of people concerning the Ahadeeth of the Messenger of Allah – sallallahu alayhi wa sallam especially what was narrated on the authority of ibn ‘Uyaynah.

Ibn Junayd stated on the authority of ibn Ma’een: ‘Alee al Madeenee is the greatest narrator on the authority of Yahya ibn Sa’eed, I saw more than ten thousand people sitting in his classes. It was said to him; ‘More than Musadad.’ He replied; ‘Yes, and Yahya ibn Sa’eed used to honor him, keep him close and accompany him, and ‘Alee always used to be with him.’

Abu Qudaamah as Sarkhasee said: I heard ‘Alee al Madeenee saying: ‘I saw in a dream that the treasures came close and I was able to take from them.’ Abu Qudaamah stated; ‘By Allah, indeed he spoke the truth, for he attained a level in Hadeeth that no one else has reached.’

Abu ‘Abdur Rahmaan an Nasaa-ee stated: ‘It is as if Allah created ‘Alee ibn al Madeenee for this purpose.’

Ahmad ibn Sa’eed ar Rubaatee stated: ‘Alee said: ‘I never studied a book of a Shaykh and then needed to refer to other than myself about it.’

Al A’een stated; ‘I saw ‘Alee al Madeenee lying down, Ahmad ibn Hanbal was at his right and ibn Ma’een was at his left and he was dictating to them.’

[at Tahdheeb of Al-Hafidh ibn Hajar al-'Asqalaanee Tahdheeb : P. 210]

Benefits of memorizing chains of narration:

The isnad are different levels. The strength of any given narration is entirely dependent on the strength of the isnad. That is, if you have a very solid isnad, then you know that the narration being transmitted is authentic. When scholars find inconsistencies in a hadith, the preference is usually given to the hadith with the stronger isnad. The isnad is the primary method of gauging the authenticity of a hadith.

If we memorize some of the famous chains of narration i.e. both authentic and unauthentic, then we will be easily able to differentiate between the strong and the weak narrations. In the upcoming papers, I will try to precisely mention some of the most famous chains of narrations.

Some unauthentic chains of narrations:

1) All the commentaries of Sayyiduna Abdullah Ibne Abbas reported in the tafseer of Tabari via Zahack are weak. Because Zahack's meeting with Sayyiduna Abdullah Ibne Abbas is not proven.

2) Similarly, All the commentaries of Sayyiduna Abdullah Ibne Abbas reported in the tafseer of Tabari via Abu Saleh through Kalbi are fabricated. These two narrators (i.e. Abu Saleh and Kalbi) are liars. They have forged many reports which insulted the prophets.

* Apostates like Salman Rushdie, Taslima Nasreen, etc..., have based their filthy writings on these concocted reports

3) All the commentaries of Sayyiduna Abdullah Ibne Abbas reported in the Tafseer of Tabari via Suddi through Malik, Abu Saleh and, Murrah al Hamdani are to be rejected.

If the same Suddi narrates from Sayyiduna Abdullah Ibne Masud (R.A) through Murrah al Hamdani, then his narrations are to be accepted.

There is no contradiction between these two statements. Suddi narrated from Sayyiduna Abdullah Ibne Masud through Murrah al Hamdani before his (Suddi's) memory power got deteriorated. Whereas, he narrated from Sayyiduna Abdullah Ibne Abbas after his memory power got deteriorated. The scholars of hadith refer to this memory power deterioration as 'Ikhtilaath'.

4) All the reports of Nuh bin Maryam in the chapters of merits and virtues are to be disapproved. He fabricated many reports. When he was asked that why he did forge so many reports from Ikrimah and Ibne Abbas; He replied: “I saw people busying themselves with the Fiqh of Abu Hanifa and Maghazi (i.e. Battles of the Prophet) of Ibne Ishaq, So I forged reports on the virtues of quran with the intention of bringing people close to the quran”.

However, the reality is that scholars of ahadith have rejected all of his narrations. From this we can assume the seriousness of the scholars of ahadith in verifying the narrations.

5) If these four narrators i.e Abu Miqnaf, Jabir bin Yazeed al kufi, Muhammad bin Sa'ib al-Kalbi, and Sa'eef bin Umar (especially, regarding the conflicts of the companions of the Prophet Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam) narrates any report, Then they are to be rejected.

- As far as Abu Mikhnaf Lut ibn Yahya is concerned, Then Imams like Yahya ibn Ma'in, Abu Hatim, Ibn 'Adiy and Hafiz Dhahabi (rahimahumullah) regarded him to be very weak. In addition to him being very weak, Imam Ibn 'Adiy (rahimahullah) states that he was an extremist Shi'i who would record the History/information of the Shi'ah. In Tarikhul Islam, Hafiz Dhahabi describes him as a Rafidi (an extremist Shi'i). (Refer: Al Jarhu Wat Ta'dil, vol. 7 pg. 182, Al Kamil Fid Du'afa, vol. 9 pg. 15, Lisanul Mizan, vol. 6 pg. 430, number: 6248 and Tarikhul Islam, vol. 7 pg. 189) Based on the above, his general narrations will be deemed very weak. As for his narrations in support of Sayyiduna Husayn (radiyallahu 'anhu), the Ahlu Bayt and narrations of this nature, they will be regarded as unacceptable as they support his corrupt beliefs. (Refer: Tadribur Rawi and Sharh Nukhbah). 687 fabricated reports of Abu Miqnaf are found in the history of Tabari. Imam Dhahabi (Rahimahullah) has narrated the Ijma on the weakness of Abu Mikhnaf Lut ibn Yahya. [Siyar Alaamin Nubala]
- Imam Abu Hanifa said: “I have never seen a worse liar than Jabir bin Yazid Al Kufi”. [Jami'i Bayanul Ilm Wa Fadhlihi of Ibne Abdul Barr]

- Ibn Hajar Al Asqalani (Rahimahullah) has narrated the Ijma (i.e. consensus) on the weakness of Muhammad bin Saaib Kalbi. [Tahzeebuth Tahzeeb]
- Though Sa'eef bin Umar was good in history, yet he was very weak in ahadith. Laymen should never get confused by these controversial narrations regarding the conflicts of the companions of Prophet Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam. Allah says in the Quran,

“And the first forerunners [in the faith] among the Muhajireen and the Ansar and those who followed them with good conduct - Allah is pleased with them and they are pleased with Him, and He has prepared for them gardens beneath which rivers flow, wherein they will abide forever. That is the great attainment.” [9:100]

So, we Ahlus Sunnah believe that Allah (who is fully aware of the past, present, and the future) is pleased with all the companions of the Prophet Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam. We should save our Imaan by not getting entrapped by the plots of the deviant individuals.

* Is (Tanwir al-Miqbas min Tafsir Ibn 'Abbas) an authentic tafsir ?

Some scholars have contested attributing the Tafseer in question to the well-known linguist Al-Fayrooz Abaadi, the author of Al-Qaamoos (a famous Arabic language dictionary). It was mentioned that a copy of it was found before Al-Fayrooz Abaadi.

Moreover, it is not correct to attribute all what is mentioned in that book to Ibn 'Abbaas may Allaah be pleased with them for all what is reported from Ibn 'Abbaas in that book is mainly reported from Muhammad ibn Marwaan As-Suddi As-Sagheer from Muhammad ibn As-Saa'ib Al-Kalbi from Abi Saalih from Ibn 'Abbaas may Allaah be pleased with him. Such Isnaad (i.e. chain of narrators) is one of the weakest chains of narrators from Ibn 'Abbaas to the extent that As-Suyooti may Allaah have mercy upon him described that chain of narrators as "the chain of telling lies."

Muhammad Husayn Ath-Thahabi has talked about that book. Amongst his words about it: "It is sufficient for us commenting on that is what was reported from the route of Ibn 'Abd Al-Hakam who said, 'I have heard Ash-Shaafi'i say, 'Nothing was authentically reported from Ibn ‘Abbaas regarding Tafseer except about one hundred Ahaadeeth.' This narration, if Ash-Shaafi‘i really said it, indicates the extent of how daring the fabricators were to invent such a huge amount of Tafseer that was attributed to Ibn ‘Abbaas. Nothing can prove that better than the apparent contradictions between narrations in that Tafseer attributed to Ibn ‘Abbaas and reported from him." [End quote]

Some Authentic Chains of Narration:

- 1) All the commentaries of Sayyiduna Abdullah Ibne Abbas reported in the Tafseer of Tabari via Ibn Abee Najeed are strong. This chain of narration is repeated approximately 800 times in the Tafseer of Tabari.
- 2) All the commentaries of Sayyiduna Qatadah reported in the Tafsir of Tabari via Sa‘eed bin Abee Arooba through Yazid bin Abi Zuray (he was narrated by Bishr Ibne Muaz al aqadi) are strong. This chain of narration is repeated approximately 3500 times in the Tafseer of Tabari.
- 3) All the commentaries of Sayyiduna Qatadah reported in the Tafsir of Tabari via Mamar bin Rashid through Abdur Razzaq San’ani via Mamar bin Rashid (he was narrated by Hasan bin Yahya) are strong. This chain of narration is found in every page of the Tafsir of Tabari.
- 4) There is difference of opinion of the scholars as to which isnad is the strongest. Imam al-Bukhari said, “The most authentic chain of narration is the narration of Malik from Nafi’ from Ibn Umar.” Most scholars agree that the chain of reporters beginning with Imam Shafi’ and ending with the Prophet Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam is the strongest. This chain is commonly known as the GOLDEN CHAIN. Ibne Hajar collected all the ahadith which were narrated through this chain in a treatise called “Ma Rawahu Ash Shafi’ in An Malikin An Nafi’ in An Ibne Umara”

A profound statement of Ali Ibne Madeeni :

Ali Ibn Madeeni said:

“All the Knowledge of the companions of Prophet Sallallahu Alayhi Wa Sallam was gathered by six people. They are Qatadah bin Diamah, Yahya bin Abee Katheer, Abu Ishaq Sabeii, Amash, Zuhri, and Amr Ibne Deenar. Again, twelve people gathered all the knowledge of these six scholars. They are Sa'eed Ibn Abee Arooba, Shubah Ibne Hajjaj, Mamar Ibne Rashid, Hammad Ibne Salamah, Jareer Ihne Hazim, Hisham Dustuwayh, Sufyan Thawri, Sufyan Ibne Uyaynah, Isra'eel, Ibne. Jurayj, Muhammad Ibne Ishaq, and Malik.

Reference: {Buhoos Fee Sunnah Al Mushriqa by Dr. Akram Zia Umri. This is one of the best books written in refuting the objections of the orientalis (regarding the ahadith)}

Some scholars further added:

“The knowledge of all these twelve scholars was gathered by the three men. They are Yahya bin Ma'een, Ali bin Madeeni, and Ahmed Ibne Hanbal. The Knowledge of all these three scholars was gathered by one man i.e Bukhari”

Hafiz Ibne Hajar's Classification of hadith narrators:

Who was Hafiz Ibne Hajar ?

Abul-Fadl Ahmad ibn Hajar's family originated in the district of Qabis in Tunisia. Some members of the family had settled in Palestine, which they left again when faced with the Crusader threat, but he himself was born in Egypt in 773, the son of the Shafi scholar and poet Nur al-Din Ali and the learned and aristocratic Tujjar. Both died in his infancy, and he was later to praise his elder sister, Sitt al-Rakb, for acting as his second mother. The two children became wards of the brother of his father's first wife, Zaki al-Din al-Kharrubi, who entered the young Ibn Hajar in a Quranic school (kuttab) when he reached five years of age. Here he excelled, learning Suratul Maryam in a single day, and progressing to the memorization of texts such as the Mukhtasar of Ibn al-Hajib on usul. By the time he accompanied al-Kharrubi to Mecca at the age of 12, he was competent enough to lead the Tarawih prayers in the Holy City, where he spent much time studying and recalling God amid the pleasing simplicity of Kharrubi's house, the Bayt al-Ayna, whose windows looked directly upon the Black Stone. Two years later his protector died, and his education in Egypt was entrusted to the hadith scholar Shams al-Din ibn al-Qattan, who entered him in the courses given by the great scholar al-Bulqini (d.806) and Ibn al-Mulaqqin (d.804) in Shafi fiqh, and of Zayn al-Din al-'Iraqi (d.806) in hadith, after which he was able to travel to Damascus and Jerusalem, where he studied under Shams al-Din al-Qalqashandi (d.809), Badr al-Din al-Balisi (d.803), and Fatima bint al-Manja al-Tanukhiyya (d.803). After a further visit to Mecca and Madina, and to the Yemen, he returned to Egypt.

When he reached 25 he married the lively and brilliant Anas Khatun, then 18 years of age. She was a hadith expert in her own right, holding ijazas from Zayn al-Din al-'Iraqi, and she gave celebrated public lectures in the presence of her husband to crowds of ulema among whom was Imam al-Sakhawi. After the marriage, Ibn Hajar moved into her house, where he lived until his death. Many noted how she surrounded herself with the old, the poor and the physically handicapped, whom it was her privilege and pleasure to support. So widely did her reputation for sanctity extend that during her fifteen years of widowhood, which she devoted to good works, she received a proposal from Imam Alam al-Din al-Bulqini, who considered that a marriage to a woman of such charity and baraka would be a source of great pride.

Once ensconced in Egypt, Ibn Hajar taught in the hadith college known as Dar al-Hadith al-Kamiliyya. During these years, he served on occasion as the Shafi chief justice of Egypt. It was in Cairo that the Imam wrote some of the most thorough and beneficial books ever added to the library of Islamic civilization. Among these are al-Durar al-Kamina (a biographical dictionary of leading figures of the eighth century), a commentary on the Forty Hadith of Imam al-Nawawi (a scholar for whom he had particular respect); Tahdhib al-Tahdhib (an abbreviation of Tahdhib al-Kamal, the encyclopedia of hadith narrators by al-Mizzi), al-Isaba fi tamyiz al-Sahaba (the most widely-used dictionary of Companions), and Bulugh al-Maram min adillat al-ahkam (on Shafi fiqh). In 817, Ibn Hajar commenced the enormous task of assembling his Fath al-Bari. It began as a series of formal dictations to his hadith students, after which he wrote it out in his own hand and circulated it section by section to his pupils, who would discuss it with him once a week. As the work progressed and its author's fame grew, the Islamic world took a close interest in the new work. In 833, Timur's son Shahrukh sent a letter to the Mamluk sultan al-Ashraf Barsbay requesting several gifts, including a copy of the Fath, and Ibn Hajar was able to send him the first three volumes. In 839, the request was repeated, and further volumes were sent, until, in the reign of al-Zahir Jaqmaq, the whole text was finished and a complete copy was dispatched. Similarly, the Moroccan sultan Abu Faris Abd al-'Aziz al-Hafsi requested a copy before its completion. When it was finished, in Rajab 842, a great celebration was held in an open place near Cairo, in the presence of the ulema, judges, and leading personages of Egypt.

Ibn Hajar sat on a platform and read out the final pages of his work, and then poets recited eulogies and gold was distributed. It was, says the historian Ibn Iyas, the greatest celebration of the age in Egypt.

Shaykh al-Islam Ibn Hajar departed this life in 852. His funeral was attended by 50,000 people, including the sultan and the caliph; even the Christians grieved. He was remembered as a gentle man, short, slender, and white-bearded, a lover of calligraphy, much inclined to charity; good to those who wronged him, and forgiving to those he was able to punish. A lifetime's proximity to the hadith had imbued him with a deep love of the Messenger (may Allah bless him and grant him peace).

Classification of Hadith Narrators:

In the Isaba and his other works on hadith narrators, Ibn Hajar has altogether identified twelve classes of narrators from the time of the Companions down to the time when the six major collections were written. All of his biographies are of persons whose hadith have been quoted in one or the other of the six collections. These may be summarised as follows. It will be noted at the outset, however, that all of the twelve categories actually fall under the basic three, namely, the Companions, the Followers (tābi'ūn) and the Successors (tābi' tābi'ūn). The twelve categories are:

1. Companions, who are sub-divided into various categories.
2. Leading figures among the Followers (kibār al-tābi'in), such as Sa'id b. al-Musayyib, Alqama and Hasan al-Basri.
3. The upper middle category of Followers, such as Muhammad b. Sirin, Hafsa bint Sirin, and 'Amra bint Abd al-Rahmān.
4. Lower middle category of the Followers, who narrated mostly from the Followers (not Companions), such as al-Zuhri and Qatāda.
5. The junior category of Followers, who may not have heard directly from the Companions, such as A'mash.

6. Those who accompanied the fifth category but who have not met with the Companions, such as Ibn Jurayj.
7. The leading Successors (kubbār atha al-tābi'in), such as Mālik b. Anas and Sufyan al-Thawri.
8. The upper middle category of Successors, such as Ibn Uyaynah and Ibn 'Ulayya.
9. The junior category of Successors, such as al-Shafī'i, and Abū Dāwūd al-Tayalisi.
10. Leading literary figures who narrated from junior Successors who had not met the Followers, such as Ahmad b. Hanbal.
11. Upper middle among the tenth category, such as al-Bukhari.
12. Junior figures among the tenth who quoted the Successors, such as al-Tirmidhi.

Ranks of Hadith Narrators:

Ibn Hajar al-'Asqalani placed the narrators of Hadith into twelve ranks:

This is important to understand especially when studying the narrators of Hadith and investigating how they were viewed as narrators. Therefore it helps to understand the terminology and ranking especially of scholars like Ibn Hajar Asqalani. He outlines this in his introduction to his work Taqrib.

1. Companions: The first generation of Muslims -did not need testimony to their knowledge or character as Allah the Most High has already done so in the Qur'an. Thus the companions are considered reliable, upright, and accurate narrators of Hadith.
2. Awthaqun Nas (Thiqa Thiqa): These are the trustworthiest of people outside of the first generation of Muslims and this is the highest rank. They were learned scholars who were also of the most upright moral characters. We often see them described with repetitive adjectives.
3. Thiqa: These narrators are trustworthy in all areas including good retentive memory, but not to a superlative degree like those in the second rank.
4. Saduq: truthful but less than rank three.

5. Saduq Yahim: Those who are trustworthy but who sometimes made mistakes in narrating ahadith. Also includes those that are accused from being from the sects of Islam.
6. Maqbool/Layyin: Those who are accepted or acceptable. They transmitted a smaller number of ahadith, and we do not have proof against their reliability (or for them to be extraordinarily sound). The Maqbool is acceptable with regards to mutaba, whereas the Layyin is not.
7. Majhool al-haal/Mastur (not Thiqa): Those whose situation is not precisely known.- but more than one person narrates from him-but he does not have tawtheeq, or a testimony of trustworthiness, from the scholars of ahadith. There is nothing wrong with him from that which is apparent, but we don't really know anything about him.
8. Da'eef or weak: This means that there is nobody speaking positively on his behalf, and some of the scholars have spoken against him.
9. Majhool or unknown: This is not the same as majhool al-haal. The majhool al-haal had more than one student narrate from him; the majhool is narrated from by only one individual, and we know nothing of him or his honesty.
10. Matruk or abandoned: This rank covers a few categories of narrators. This includes the one who committed many mistakes, the one who has detailed criticisms against him from the scholars, or one who did not meet the requirement for moral character. Also included here are the ones upon major sins (the fasiq) and the one who is unintelligent.
11. Muttaham bi'l kadhīb: The one who was accused of lying and/or making up fake ahadith. The ahadith he narrates are considered batil.
12. Kadhdhaab, waddaa': This is the one who is actually called a liar or fabricator. Being labelled with such a title is not the same as merely being accused of committing those acts in some instances. The ahadith he narrates are considered mawdu' or fabricated.

Two methods of memorizing the names of hadith narrators:

Method I

By reading the books of Ibne Hajar such as Taqreebuth Tahzeeb, Tahzeebuth Tahzeeb, etc.. One more book which was written by Imam Mizzi i.e Tahzeebul Kamaal can also be read. All of the above mentioned three books contain the biographies of all the hadith narrators mentioned in the six books of hadith. {i.e Bukhari, Muslim, Tirmidhee, Abu Dawood, Nasai, and Ibne Majah)

Books like Tareekhul Kabeer of Bukhari and Jarhwa Tadeel of Ibne Abee Hatim are also helpful. Some books only mention the biographies of weak narrators such as Du'afa of Uqaylee, Majroheen of Ibn. Hibban etc. Whereas, on the contrary, some books only mention the biographies of reliable narrators such as Kitabus Thiqaat of Ibne Hibban.

Method II:

This is quite an easy method. We can start with the Mu'watta of Imam Malik for two reasons.

1. It has only 800 Marfu (i.e connected to the Prophet Sallellahu Alayhi Wa Sallam) narrations.
2. The chains of narration are short when compared to the other books of ahadith.

By the end of this course, I will make you memorize the biographies of 300 narrators. As this is the first level, so I have included the biographies of 80 narrators. They are divided into three groups.

Group 1:

This group includes the biographies of the five rightly guided caliphs and Ashre Mukhsirah. The term “Ashre Mukhsirah” was first coined by the great andalusian scholar, Ibne Hazm. This term refers to those ten companions who have narrated the most number of ahadith from the prophet sallallahu alayhi wa sallam.

Group 2:

This group includes the biographies of the 26 students of the companions. They are often called “Tabiun”.

Group 3:

This group includes the biographies of the 40 hadith scholars.
